BACKGROUND

Under Virginia Code § 46.2-395, the grounds for driver's license suspensions has steadily grown over the years. There are very many instances in which a driver's license can be suspended under state law without any relationship to the competency of a driver or to driving conduct. It is now linked to the payment of court costs, forfeitures, restitution and penalties for violations of local, state or federal law, both civil and criminal.

Many areas of the state have inadequate or limited public transportation systems, which means that loss of a driver's license can result in job loss. Most individuals, families and small businesses require the use of automobiles in order to carry out daily tasks.

Efforts to address the negative impact of this law on those who are unable to pay have been very limited in scope. Driving is treated legally as a privilege, when in fact it is most often a necessity. For this reason, even those who are convicted of driving under the influence of alcohol can request a judicial order permitting them to drive to and from work, if they meet conditions.

The suspension of a driver's license for non-driving behavior is coercive, limits options for obtaining and keeping employment, and bears no relationship to public safety.

For these reasons, the legislative committee of the ACCF unanimously voted in favor of the following resolution regarding reform of state law as to driver's license suspension.

ACCF RESOLUTION REGARDING VIRGINIA GROUNDS FOR DRIVER'S LICENSE SUSPENSION

WHEREAS, Virginia Code § 46.2-395 provides for automatic driver's license suspension for failure to pay lawful fines, court costs, forfeitures, restitution, and penalties assessed against a person for violations of the laws of the Commonwealth; of any county, city, or town; or of the United States;¹

WHEREAS, a driver's license is necessary for most residents in order to work and carry out the tasks of daily life; and

WHEREAS, the provisions of Virginia Code § 46.2-395 disproportionately burden those living in poverty, those with low income and those with no income as a result of disability or unemployment,

NOW THEREFORE, THE ARLINGTON COUNTY CIVIC FEDERATION recommends the following state legislative changes be made:

Repeal all provisions of state law that suspend or revoke a driver's license that have no relationship to driving offenses or competency to drive an automobile.
