President's Message

October was another strong month for the Civic Federation, and I want to thank everyone who joined us for our General Membership Meeting. We had thoughtful conversations about Arlington's climate efforts and opportunities for greater community involvement, as well as community policing and public safety. We also began an important part of our annual work with the first reading of the Federation's 2027 Legislative Agenda.

A special shoutout and heartfelt thank-you to our Vice President, Jean Henceroth, for her tremendous work organizing the Lee Center Centennial. It was a wonderful celebration of Arlington's history, with inspiring speakers, including a memorable keynote from our neighbor Eugene Robinson, and the dedication of eleven Stumbling Stones in cooperation with the Arlington Historical Society and Black Heritage Museum of Arlington. The event was co-sponsored by Langston Boulevard Alliance and Leeway Overlee Civic Association in their efforts to promote Third Places along the Boulevard Corridor. The centennial also helped start an important community conversation about future uses for this historic building and the role it can continue to play in Arlington.

Looking ahead to November, I'm especially pleased to welcome Virginia Delegate Dan Helmer to our November 10 meeting. Delegate Helmer will discuss the work of the House Committee on Counties, Cities and Towns, which he chairs, and its role during the Virginia General Assembly session. It should be a timely conversation about how decisions made in Richmond affect the issues we care about here at home.

We will also hold the second reading and vote on our 2027 Legislative Agenda, giving our member organizations an opportunity to speak collectively about priorities we believe deserve the attention of Arlington's General Assembly delegation and state lawmakers. I hope our delegates will come ready to participate in the discussion and vote.

And, of course, November means Election Day. Whatever your choices on the ballot, please make a plan to vote. Voting is one of the most important ways we can make our voices heard and take part in the civic life of our community.

One more date for your calendar: Friday, April 2, 2027, when we will gather for the Civic Federation's Annual Banquet and Awards Ceremony at the Hilton Arlington Rosslyn The Key. We're looking forward to a special evening of fellowship, celebration and recognition of those who contribute so much to our Arlington community. More details will be coming, but for now, save the date!

Thank you, as always, for being part of the conversation and for all you do for Arlington. I look forward to seeing you in November!

Sincerely,

Nick Giacobbe
President, Arlington County Civic Federation

Legislature Fireside Chat with Del. Dan Helmer

Submitted by Francine Friedman, Legislation Committee Co-chair legislation.chair@civfed.org

The November 10 General Meeting of the Arlington County Civic Federation opens at 7:00 p.m. with a fireside chat featuring Delegate Dan Helmer, who has represented House District 10 in Fairfax County in the Virginia House of Delegates since 2020. In January 2026, he was named Chair of the House Committee on Counties, Cities and Towns, which considers legislation affecting Virginia's local governments which in turn can directly shape what our County Board is able to do on issues such as land use, zoning, and local services.

Moderated by Francine Friedman, Co-Chair of the ACCF Legislation Committee, the 30–35 minute conversation will look back at the 2026 legislative session and ahead to the 2027 session, with a focus on the local-government issues most relevant to Arlington.

Delegate Helmer will also offer a plain-language overview of the Dillon Rule, how the Virginia legislative process works and share practical ways residents can engage with their state legislators, followed by audience Q&A.

Note: We will be hosting a casual reception before the meeting on Nov. 10 (starting at 6:40) and invite attendees to arrive early to mix and mingle.

Annual Dues and Recertification

Submitted by Dixie Duncan, ACCF Secretary
secretary@civfed.org

It is that time of year again for each member organization to recertify it has an active membership of at least 20 members, update officer and delegate information, and pay annual ACCF membership dues.

MEMBER DUES
Annual dues are for FY2027 increased to $70 per member organization. We have not raised dues for 5 years, but unfortunately our operating costs have increased. Dues may be paid via Zelle, PayPal, or by Check.

RECERTIFICATION
Per our bylaws, all member organizations must complete an annual recertification and pay member dues by 20 November each year.

DONATIONS
Donations in any amount in addition to member dues are greatly appreciated.

We will be sending notices to all known member officers, but the link to our dues/recert page is listed below for your convenience. Before you start you will want to gather up all the names and email addresses of your officers and your delegates. As in the past, we recommend that you include an organizational email address which we can provide to the County.

Election Day Resources and Voting Rights Guides

Submitted by Allan Gajadhar, bod.member1@civfed.org

The upcoming November 3rd elections will be very consequential, it is vitally important that eligible citizens are able to exercise their constitutional right to vote. Concerns have been voiced from many sectors that elections are conducted safely and securely and legally, and that voters are safe at the polls.
Civfed has compiled the following voting resources to provide guidance to voters on voting procedures and election safety.

- Detailed guidance on voting, including a list of everything on the ballot (candidates, proposed amendments and bonds) can be found on the Arlington Elections page.
- The Virginia elections page includes a link to lookup your assigned polling place.

Voting Rights and Voter Safety

To address voter concerns and for further information, the Commonwealth's Attorney and the Arlington Police developed the following guides to voting rights and voter safety for the November 3rd election. These guides were distributed at the recent voter safety town halls, and the September CivFed membership meeting.

Lee Center Centennial Celebration: Stumbling Stones Unveiling & 'Third Places'

Submitted by Jean Henceroth, vicepresident@civfed.org

On Saturday, October 24, partnering with the Langston Boulevard Alliance, Leeway Overlee Civic Association celebrated the centennial of the Lee Center building and the installation of 11 Stumbling Stones honoring people enslaved on farms in the area during the 18th and 19th centuries. Speakers also addressed the importance of 'Third Places,' or in other words, gathering places for community outside of home and work, like a community center and park. It is also the centennial of the Leeway Overlee Civic Association which first met in the new Lee Center building in 1925. About 135 people listened to a series of speakers and musical performances.

Additional Stumbling Stones in nearby sidewalks honor Moses Bennett and three people whose last names remain unknown: Fedro, Harry and Mariah.

The Stumbling Stones project is managed by the Arlington Historical Society and the Black Heritage Museum of Arlington. Historical Society volunteers have identified over 2,000 formerly enslaved individuals within Arlington's boundaries and already installed over 100 Stumbling Stones throughout the County. The idea of Stumbling Stones in America was introduced by journalist Michelle Norris after she visited Germany and witnessed Stumbling Stones to memorialize victims of the Holocaust.

Some of the local dignitaries who gave inspiring speeches at the gathering included Dr. Scott Taylor, President of the Black Heritage Museum of Arlington; Moe Bryant, member of the Arlington Public School Board, J.D. Spain Sr., member of the Arlington Board, Patrick Hope, State Delegate to the Virginia Assembly, and Barbara Favola, State Senator. United States Congressman Don Beyer spoke about the importance of Third Places and introduced his friend, award-winning journalist Eugene Robinson.

Keynote speaker Eugene Robinson, journalist and neighbor, related the significance of the Stumbling Stones project to what he learned writing his recent memoir, "Freedom Lost, Freedom Won: A Personal History of America." The memoir reflects not only his family's rise out of slavery and Jim Crow suppression, but how it mirrored race relations and the changing cycles of American history.

The former Lee Community Center, later the LAC Arts Center, was built in 1925 as the Robert E. Lee Elementary School and served Arlington County as a community gathering place for 100 years. The building has been closed for over a year pending future renovations and a determination of its future uses. Langston Boulevard Alliance, Leeway Overlee Civic Association, and the musicians appealed to the gathering to stay engaged in Saving the Building and Park and to submit ideas for future uses of the space to benefit Arlington County residents.

Legislation Committee Update

Submitted by Francine Friedman and Dave Schutz, Co-chairs legislation.chair@civfed.org

Please find the revised draft 2027 legislative agenda at this link, which reflects input from Committee meetings and the membership.
Note that all discussion of camera-related jurisdiction has been removed from the agenda. At its meeting, the Legislative Committee concluded that camera issues have become increasingly entangled with privacy and policing concerns and warrant more in-depth discussion in the subject-matter committees than our group can provide. This includes the Transportation Committee's suggestions on bus-mounted cameras and noise abatement monitoring, as well as speed cameras. We will refer camera-related issues to the Public Safety and Transportation Committees. We also recommend that a future monthly Civic Federation Membership meeting include a panel or other program featuring multiple viewpoints on this issue, so that we and the community can learn more about this complex topic.

We have scheduled our next Legislative Committee meeting for Nov. 5 from 7–8 p.m.
If any changes to the legislative agenda are needed before we present it to the membership at the Nov. 10 meeting, please let us know no later than Nov. 3, and we will discuss revisions at the Nov. 5 Legislative Committee meeting.
In addition, if any other legislative issues (not necessarily for inclusion on the formal 2027 legislative agenda) have gone through substantive committee review and are ripe for raising with the Legislative Committee, please let us know and we will add them to the meeting agenda.
If neither is identified, we will not hold the Nov. 5 meeting and will regroup in December.
Here is the sign-up link. Please do not sign up before Nov. 4. Once you sign up after that date, you will receive either your admission link for the meeting or notice that the meeting has been cancelled.

Ring My Bell

Submitted by Nick Giacobbe

At noon on every federal holiday the residents of the Bluemont Civic Association gather in Constitution Garden Park at the corner of Wilson Boulevard and George Mason Drive to mark the holliday by ringing the bell. You can join this Arlington tradition on Wednesday, November 11 at noon. And while there, be sure to say hello to the Keeper of the Clapper, a truly unique civic association role.

CivFed In the News: Recent Coverage of Civic Federation Activities

Submitted by Francine Friedman and Dave Schutz, Co-chairs legislation.chair@civfed.org

From local governance to public safety, recent news coverage has highlighted the Arlington County Civic Federation's role in bringing community issues into public discussion. This coverage underscores the importance of CivFed's work in bringing attention to issues that matter to the Arlington community.

- Exploring governance options. An October 12 ARLnow report examined ACCF's proposed push for state enabling legislation that would give Arlington options to change its governance structure, including board size, election schedules and district representation. The article previewed consideration of the proposal as part of ACCF's 2027 legislative package, with a membership vote anticipated November 10.

- A forum for public safety discussion. In an October 20 ARLnow story, Police Chief Andy Penn's presentation at ACCF's October 13 meeting drew attention to the ongoing debate over automated license-plate readers. The report described Penn's support for the technology following the County Board's decision to remove Flock Safety cameras from public land, as well as his update on declining crime trends.

- Update on police staffing and upcoming public safety challenges. An October 21 ARLnow story drew on remarks by Police Chief Andy Penn and Deputy Chief Wayne Vincent at ACCF's October 13 meeting. Penn reported that police hiring is improving, with 317 sworn officers out of an authorized strength of 375 and more recruits in the academy and field training, following the County's new $90,000 entry-level salary for officers. Vincent briefed ACCF on police preparations for Halloween and the November 3 election.

Housing Committee Update

Submitted by Anne Bodine, Matt Hall co-chairs, housing.chair@civfed.org

Housing Committee to Look at Countywide Garden Apartment Redevelopment via Example of "Ballston Park and Buckingham Commercial District" Redevelopment Options and Continue Reviewing New Development Allowances at Old Key Bridge Site in Rosslyn.

Please join us for our November 23 Housing Committee meeting, which will meet exceptionally from 6:00-7:30 pm (vs. our usual time of 6:30 pm). The meeting will be virtual, please register here to attend.

We have invited Arlington County to present on possible redevelopment of the Ballston Park section of Buckingham historic district and community, which is in Ashton Heights and in Buckingham Civic Associations. This redevelopment of a combined 20 acres of existing garden apartment rentals and low-density commercial property at N. Glebe and Pershing Drive, if approved, would hold policy implications for at least 10 other affordable garden apartment communities. Those were part of a now-suspended county Housing Conservation District Study dating from 2017, since renamed Multifamily Reinvestment Study, and their redevelopment holds common traits that likely will be applied wherever they are first adopted, such as at Ballson Park. The HCD effort (now MRS) sought to identify areas that could be part of a potential "affordable housing conservation district" in Arlington that would preserve or otherwise seek to retain market rate and committed affordable apartments, where the county's identified housing need is greatest.

The second half of the meeting will update our efforts to quantify and clearly lay out all the bonus density, additional land use, site plan conditions and contributions, and any other exceptions being sought via this site plan process for 1401 Langston Blvd., site of the old Key Bridge Marriott redevelopment by KBLH, LLC. The new site plan effort involves a review of whether to include this site (along with a GLUP change via an ongoing Special GLUP study) that would integrate the site into the Rosslyn Coordinated Redevelopment District of 2015 (RCRD). The current property allows a base floor area ratio allowance of 2.5 floor area ratio (FAR) density for mixed use apartment/hotel use, while developers seek now to pursue site plan approval for a project with a density up to 8.5 FAR, i.e. more than tripling current density allowances.

Like the Ballston Park project, this CivFed effort will help model ways to feed into improved planning processes including community engagement, especially inside our existing planning corridors.

MEA Milestone Reached

On October 3, 2026, the Memorializing the Enslaved in Arlington (MEA) project reached a major milestone by installing its 100th "stumbling stone" or memorial plaque during a dedication at Arlington's Central Library. This achievement reflects a sustained commitment to recognizing the lives and experiences of enslaved people who helped shape

Arlington County's history. Before the Civil War, slavery was deeply embedded in the economic and social life of what is now Arlington. Enslaved people worked on farms and plantations, performed domestic labor, and contributed to the region's development. They also formed families, maintained community networks, practiced their faith, and pursued freedom despite the restrictions imposed upon them. Yet their individual stories have often been overlooked or inadequately documented. Historical records frequently identify enslaved people through the perspectives of enslavers rather than in their own words. Researchers must piece together evidence from wills, estate inventories, census records, court documents, church records, and other sources to recover their names and experiences.

The MEA project, supported by the Black Heritage Museum and AHS, brings these histories into public view by connecting historical research with the places where enslaved people lived and worked. Each plaque invites residents and visitors to reflect on their experiences and recognize their contributions to Arlington's past. The installation of the 100th stumbling stone at the Central Library dedication connects this important historical initiative with a public institution devoted to learning, research, and community engagement. Reaching this milestone celebrates the dedication of researchers, volunteers, and community partners while recognizing that much work remains. Each plaque deepens our understanding of Arlington's history and helps ensure the experiences of enslaved people are not forgotten. Through this ongoing effort, Arlington is building a more complete historical record and preserving these important stories for future generations.
